

PRIVACY NOTICE

INTRODUCTION

We are Recco LLP – The Recruitment Co-Operative LLP (Registered in England & Wales No. OC439266) of Office 2, Tweed House, Park Lane, Swanley, England, BR8 8DT. We are registered with the Information Commissioners Office (ICO) as a data controller with registration number

ZB476027.

As a business which relies upon having access to information about Candidates to meet our Clients' requirements, data is essential to our business. Our systems and processes are designed to ensure that we can provide the best possible service to our clients while operating within the Data Protection Legislation at all times. This Privacy Notice sets out the basis on which we use personal data in the course of our business activities.

We reserve the right to update this Privacy Notice from time to time. When applicable, we shall notify you of any material changes to the Privacy Notice. We will not notify you of any minor or administrative changes to our Privacy Notice and you should check it periodically to view any changes. This will ensure that you understand (i) how we are using your personal data and (ii) your legal rights around our usage of such personal data.

For an explanation of the definitions which are used in this Privacy Notice, please refer to the section at the end of the document.

OUR NETWORK OF COMPANIES

WHO SHOULD READ THIS PRIVACY NOTICE?

This Privacy Notice applies to any living, identifiable individuals about whom we may process personal data in the course of our business activities.

You should read this Privacy Notice if you are a:

- Candidate
- Client Contact
- Referee
- Supplier Contact

Please note that, in some cases, you will fall into more than one of the above categories.

CANDIDATES

Where We Obtain Your Personal Data

We will obtain personal data relating to you:

- Directly if you have:
 - Applied for a Client vacancy through us
 - Uploaded your CV or submitted an enquiry through our website
 - Asked us to provide any work-finding services to you
 - Provided any personal data on our social media posts or pages
 - Provided any personal data at networking activities, events, job fairs and assessment days
 - Had any discussions with us about finding alternative employment
- Indirectly from:
 - Online professional networking sites such as LinkedIn
 - Job boards such as CV Library, Indeed and LinkedIn
 - Clients who provide feedback about applications for employment or engagement which you have made, interviews which you have attended and assignments which you have carried out
 - Referees who provide information about your employment experience and their opinion as to your skills and aptitude
 - Third party websites
 - Business information directories and online industry databases
 - When applicable, third-party background checking services such as the Disclosure & Barring Service

Types of Personal Data We Hold

We will collect, store, and process the following types of personal data about you:

- Personal contact details such as name, title, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses;
- Your gender, date of birth, nationality and place of residence;
- Your professional skills and experience;
- Your qualifications, training and certifications;
- Proof of your right to work in the United Kingdom such as copies of your passport and, where applicable, visa, residence permit or similar government documents;
- Proof of your identity and address, such as copies of your driving licence, utility bills or similar documents;
- Information about your current or most recent role, including your job title, department, reporting line, responsibilities, salary, benefits and notice period;
- Your motivation and reasons for seeking new employment;
- Any information within your CV or any application document which a Client may require you to complete;
- Any background information which you provide to us during the course of your dealings with us;
- Details of any Clients to whom you have been introduced by us;
- Details of any interviews which you have attended and our Clients' feedback on those interviews;
- Details of any position which you take up with a Client, including your role, duties, remuneration, department and location;
- If you provide any services on a freelance basis:
 - Details of any limited company through which you contract and the nature of your relationship with that company;
 - Information about the days and times which you have worked;
 - Your bank details, tax code and National Insurance Number; and
 - Information about any services which you have carried out, including any comments, feedback and issues relating to such services.

We will also collect, store, and use the following "special categories" of more sensitive personal data:

- Information about your race or ethnicity;
- Information about your health, including any medical condition, health and sickness records; and
- Information about criminal convictions and offences.

How We Use Your Personal Data

We use your personal data to:

- Assess and verify your potential suitability for employment with a Client;
- Contact you in relation to any potential employment opportunities with a Client;
- Introduce you to our Clients and potentially arrange for you to fill a Client vacancy;
- Stay in regular contact with you to understand your current position, career aspirations and motivation for finding new employment;
- Where applicable, make payments to you or arrange for any third-party company through which you may contract to make payments to you;
- Contact you to ask for a referral;
- Produce anonymised statistical data;
- Carry out compliance checks to ensure that we have complied with our legal and contractual obligations;
- Comply with our legal obligations, defend or bring any legal proceedings and prevent fraud or any other crime;
- Conduct equal opportunities monitoring.

Our Lawful Basis for Processing Your Personal Data

We have determined that we have a legitimate interest to process your personal data where you are a Candidate on the basis that it is necessary for us to maintain a database of individuals who are (i) actively seeking new employment with a Client or (ii) potentially suitable for employment with a Client. By processing your personal data and contacting you from time to time, we are able to gain an understanding of your current role (where applicable), your skills and experience, and your career aspirations. Our processing of your personal data is therefore of benefit to:

- You, as it assists us to identify new employment opportunities about which you might not otherwise been aware and to give general advice and guidance in support of your career development;
- Our Clients, who rely on us to have access to suitable, pre-qualified candidates who can fill their requirements; and
- Us, as we are a business which relies upon being able to introduce Candidates to our Clients

In some circumstances, we may also process your data:

- To perform a contract which we have with you. Irrespective of whether you are engaged for a temporary assignment through a third party limited company (where relevant), we will usually have a contract with you personally to provide work-finding services;
- To comply with a legal obligation. For example, the Conduct of Employment Agencies and Employment Businesses Regulations 2003 require us to hold certain data about applications and placements for at least one year.

Our Lawful Basis for Processing Your Special/Sensitive Personal Data

We may also need to process a relatively minor amount of sensitive (special) personal data relating to you. Any sensitive personal data shall be held strictly in accordance with our policies on data retention and sensitive personal data. The type of sensitive personal data which we might process includes:

- Information about any medical conditions or disability (i) where they are relevant to the type of work which you are proposing to carry out or (ii) where you have otherwise provided this in the course of dealing with us e.g. if you tell us the reason for a long term absence from work;
- Information about any unspent criminal convictions and, where relevant to the type of role which you are carrying out, spent convictions, police warnings, cautions, etc and
- Information about any trade union of which you are a member (but only insofar as it relates to an employment claim or pay and working conditions on a client site).

We will process sensitive personal data relating to you if you have expressly consented to such processing.

Parties with Whom We May Share Your Personal Data

We will share your personal data within Recco as set out above. We may share your personal data for legitimate purposes with:

- A Client where you have expressed an interest in being introduced to such Client or are being supplied to such Client on an assignment;
- Any third-party which is engaged by the Client to assist them in the recruitment process including a managed service company, Recruitment Process Outsourcing provider or IT platform provider;
- A Client-appointed compliance auditor (and/or the Client itself) for the purposes of demonstrating that we have complied with our legal and contractual obligations;
- A third-party company through which you are contracting;
- A third-party company to which you have specifically asked to be introduced or referred, such as an insurance company or intermediary (umbrella/CIS) company;
- Background checking services such as the Disclosure & Barring Service;
- Industry bodies which are relevant to the market sector in which you work;
- Suppliers who in some cases may use their own subcontractors and sub-processors;
- Our bankers and recruitment finance providers;
- Governmental departments and agencies where we are permitted or required by law to do so.

We may need to share sensitive personal data relating to you with our Clients if there is a legitimate reason to do so. For example, information about any medical condition which you have if it is relevant for health & safety purposes. Likewise, we will share information about any convictions which you disclose as we are under a legal obligation to notify our Client of information which is relevant to your suitability to carry out an assignment. We will ask for your express consent before sharing your sensitive personal data.

CLIENT CONTACTS

Where We Obtain Your Personal Data

We obtain personal data relating to you:

- Directly in the course of dealing with you as a representative of the Client
- Indirectly from:
 - Online professional networking sites such as LinkedIn
 - Your employer's website and other industry-related websites
 - Business information directories
 - Other individuals within your organisation in the course of us providing services to the Client.

Types of Personal Data We Hold

We collect, store, and use the following categories of personal data about you:

- Personal contact details such as name, title, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses;
- Your job title and position within the Client organisation; and
- Any background information relating to your personal circumstances, your work history and the role which you perform within the Client which you may provide to us in the course of your dealings with us.

We do not collect, store or use any "special" or sensitive personal data if you are a Client Contact.

How We Use Your Personal Data

We use your personal data to:

- Contact you to obtain information about our Client's requirements;
- Liaise with you so that we may effectively perform the services to our Client;
- Contact you to inform you of a Candidate's availability or interest in a job role;
- Obtain a reference for a Candidate;
- Contact you for invoicing and credit control purposes;

- Provide you with statistical information about your industry sector;
- Comply with our legal obligations, defend or bring any legal proceedings and prevent fraud or any other crime.

Our Lawful Basis for Processing Your Personal Data

We have determined that we have a legitimate interest to process your personal data where you are a Client Contact on the basis that we need to be able to contact and interact with the individuals who are employed or engaged by our Clients. This will allow us to effectively provide services to them, better understand their requirements and generate revenue for our business. We do not use your data in any way which could reasonably be considered to be prejudicial to your interests.

Parties with Whom We May Share Your Personal Data

We will share your personal data within Recco as set out above. We may share very limited data relating to you with a Candidate where such sharing is strictly required for the recruitment process e.g. so that the Candidate may contact you directly. We will also share your personal data with Suppliers for legitimate business purposes.

SUPPLIER CONTACTS

Where We Obtain Your Personal Data

We obtain personal data relating to you:

- Directly in the course of our dealings with you as a representative of the Supplier; and
- Indirectly from:
 - Online professional networking sites such as LinkedIn
 - Your employer's website and other industry-related websites
 - Business information directories
 - Other individuals within your organisation in the course of the Supplier providing services to us.

Types of Personal Data We Hold

We will collect, store, and use the following categories of personal information about you:

- Personal contact details such as name, title, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses;
- Your job title and position within the Supplier organisation; and
- Any background information relating to the role which you perform within the Supplier which you may provide to us in the course of your dealings with us.

We do not collect, store or use any "special" or sensitive personal data if you are a Supplier Contact.

How We Use Your Personal Data

We use your personal data to:

- Liaise with you in respect of services which are being provided by the Supplier;
- Contact you in relation to billing matters;
- Comply with our legal obligations, defend or bring any legal proceedings and prevent fraud or any other crime.

Our Lawful Basis for Processing Your Personal Data

We have determined that we have a legitimate interest to process your personal data where you are a Supplier Contact, on the basis that we need to be able to contact and interact with the individuals who are employed or engaged by our Suppliers. This will allow us to ensure that our Suppliers provide us with the best possible service which, in turn, is of direct benefit to both our Candidates and our Clients. We do not use your data in any way which could reasonably be considered to be prejudicial to your interests.

Parties with Whom We May Share Your Personal Data

We will share your personal data within Recco as set out above. We will share your personal data with other Suppliers for legitimate business purposes.

REFEREES

Where We Obtain Your Personal Data

We obtain personal data relating to you:

- Directly from you in the course of any communications between us; or
- Indirectly from:
 - the Candidate who has nominated you as his or her Referee
 - online professional networking sites such as LinkedIn
 - your employer's website and other industry-related websites

Types of Personal Data We Hold

We collect, store, and use the following categories of personal data about you:

- Personal contact details such as name, title, addresses, telephone numbers, and email addresses;
- Your job title and position within your employer; and
- Any background information which you may provide to us in the course of your dealings with us.

We do not collect, store or use any "special" or sensitive personal data if you are a Referee.

How We Use Your Personal Data

We use your personal data to:

- Contact you to obtain a reference on a Candidate;
- Provide a copy of the reference to our Client;
- Comply with our legal obligations, defend, or bring any legal proceedings and prevent fraud or any other crime.

Our Lawful Basis for Processing Your Personal Data

We have determined that we have a legitimate interest to process your personal data where you are a Referee, on the basis that we are generally required to obtain references to comply with our contractual obligations to third parties and, in some instances, we are under a legal obligation to do so. It is therefore necessary and reasonable for us to process personal data relating to you strictly for compliance with these obligations.

Parties with Whom We May Share Your Personal Data

We will share your personal data within Recco as set out above.

We will also share the details of any reference which you give with our Clients. We will typically provide your name, job title and employer name when doing so. In some circumstances and only when you have agreed to such disclosure, we will provide your contact details so that our Client may verify the reference or ask for further information. We will also share your personal data with Suppliers for legitimate business purposes.

WHERE WE PROCESS PERSONAL DATA

Your personal data is held and processed by us in the United Kingdom.

We have put in place appropriate safeguards to ensure that your data is only transferred to jurisdictions with enforceable data subject rights and effective legal remedies in respect of data privacy breaches. We will therefore only transfer your personal data to jurisdictions outside of the UK where:

- The transfer is to a country within the European Economic Area.
- There is an adequacy decision or regulation in respect of that jurisdiction. At present, the approved jurisdictions are Andorra, Argentina, Canada (commercial organisations), Faroe Islands, Guernsey, Israel, Isle of Man, Japan, Jersey, New Zealand, Republic of Korea, Switzerland, Uruguay and the US (limited to the Privacy Shield framework).
- The transfer of data is subject to an approved international data transfer agreement (IDTA). This means that we have a data-sharing agreement in place which complies with UK government requirements; or
- You have expressly given informed consent to the transfer of such data. This means that you have not only agreed to the transfer but have done so in the knowledge that your data may be transferred to a jurisdiction which does not give you the same degree of protection.

AUTOMATED DECISION MAKING

Automated decision-making takes place when an electronic system uses personal information to make a decision without human intervention.

All decisions which are made in the course of our business processes involve human intervention. We do not make any decisions using automated means.

DATA SECURITY

We have put in place appropriate security measures to prevent your personal information from being accidentally lost, used or accessed in an unauthorised way, altered or disclosed. In addition, we limit access to your personal information to those employees, agents, contractors and other third parties who have a business need to know. They will only process your personal information on our instructions and they are subject to a duty of confidentiality. Details of these measures may be obtained from a Director.

We have put in place procedures to deal with any suspected data security breach and will notify you and any applicable regulator of a suspected breach where we are legally required to do so.

DATA RETENTION

We will only retain your personal information for as long as necessary to fulfil the purposes we collected it for, including for the purposes of satisfying any legal, accounting, or reporting requirements. To determine the appropriate retention period for personal data, we consider the amount, nature, and sensitivity of the personal data, the potential risk of harm from unauthorised use or disclosure of your personal data, the purposes for which we process your personal data and whether we can achieve those purposes through other means, and the applicable legal requirements.

Our standard data retention period is three years from the last date on which we are in actual contact with you i.e. where we speak with you or exchange correspondence. After this time, we will usually delete your personal data from our records.

Where we are required to keep any information (i) for auditing or compliance purposes (ii) to comply with our contractual obligations to third parties or (iii) in respect of any potential or actual legal proceedings, we shall keep your data for as long as is strictly necessary for these purposes, which is typically for seven years in respect of audit data which we may be required to produce for HRMC or to prove compliance with our contractual obligations.

In some circumstances we may completely anonymise your personal information so that it can no longer be associated with you, in which case we may use such information without further notice to you.

RIGHTS OF ACCESS, CORRECTION, ERASURE & RESTRICTION

Your duty to inform us of changes. It is important that the personal information we hold about you is accurate and current. Please keep us informed if your personal information changes during your working relationship with us.

Your rights in connection with personal information. Under certain circumstances, you have the right to:

- Request access to your personal information (a Subject Access Request). This enables you to receive a copy of the personal information we hold about you and to check that we are lawfully processing it. You will not usually have to pay a fee to access your personal information but we may charge a reasonable fee if your request is clearly unfounded, repetitive or excessive. Alternatively, we may refuse to comply with the request in such circumstances.
- Request correction of the personal information that we hold about you. This enables you to have any incomplete or inaccurate information we hold about you corrected.
- Request erasure of your personal information. This enables you to ask us to delete or remove personal information where the personal data is no longer necessary in relation to the purpose for which it was originally collected/processed or you have objected to the processing and there is no overriding legitimate interest for continuing the processing.
- Object to processing of your personal information where we are relying on a legitimate interest and you object on “grounds relating to your particular situation.”
- Request the restriction of processing of your personal information. This enables you to ask us to block or suppress the processing of personal information about you, for example if you want us to establish its accuracy or the reason for processing it or if you have also objected to the processing as above.
- Request the transfer of your personal information to another party when the processing is based on consent and carried out by automated means. This right is not usually applicable to any data processing carried out by us.

If you want to exercise any of the above rights, please contact a Director in writing. We will consider your request and confirm the actions which we have taken in response to such request.

We may need to request specific information from you to help us confirm your identity and ensure your right to access the information (or to exercise any of your other rights). This is an appropriate security measure to ensure that personal information is not disclosed to any person who has no right to receive it.

In the limited circumstances where you may have provided your consent to the collection, processing, and transfer of your personal information for a specific purpose, you have the right to withdraw your consent for that specific processing at any time. To withdraw your consent, please contact a Director. Once we have received notification that you have withdrawn your consent, we will no longer process your information for the purpose or purposes you originally agreed to, unless we have another legitimate basis for doing so in law. We will confirm the actions which we have taken in respect of any such request.

If you are unhappy with any aspect of the manner in which we have processed your personal data or dealt with your decision to exercise any of the rights set out in this section, you have the right to complain to the Information Commissioners Office in the United Kingdom. Their details are:

*Information Commissioner's Office, Wycliffe House, Water Lane, Wilmslow, Cheshire SK9 5AF
Tel: 0303 123 1113 (local rate) or 01625 545 745

DEFINITIONS

This Privacy Notice uses the following defined terms:

Candidate means a person who is recorded in our records as seeking or potentially suitable for employment or engagement with a Client. This includes individuals who are not actively seeking a new role but who are in contact with us about potential opportunities which may be of interest from time to time.

Client means a business which has engaged us to provide services or which we have identified as a business for which we wish to perform services.

Client Contact means a person who is employed or engaged by a Client and with whom we may liaise in respect of any services which we are providing or wish to provide to the Client. In some cases, the Client Contact and the Client may be the same person e.g. where a Client is a sole trader.

Data Protection Legislation means the Data Protection Act 2018, the retained UK version of the General Data Protection Regulation ((EU) 2016/679) and all other applicable legislation in the United Kingdom relating to data protection, together with any successor legislation.

Referee means a person who has provided to us a written or verbal opinion in respect of the work history, skills, competency and/or experience of a Candidate;

Supplier means a business which provides services to us and which may process personal data relating to any Candidate, Client Contact or Supplier Contact in the course of performing such services including our:

- Professional advisers including accountants, tax advisors and lawyers;
- Insurers;
- IT services providers and software providers; and
- Independent consultants and subcontractors

Supplier Contact means a person who is employed or engaged by a Supplier and with whom we may liaise from time to time in respect of the services which are provided by that Supplier.
